A Staff Leadership Activity Sheet

Michael Brandwein

Please suppose that you have been asked to visit a camp and observe the staff. You will watch how staff work with the campers and with each other.

Your assignment is to pick which three staff people are the very best.

Here's the question: if you could only pick one 45-minute time "window" during which to observe the staff at the camp, why would you want it to be raining while you were doing it?

Please be as specific as possible in answering this question and try to come up with as many different reasons as you can. Thanks!
